EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR

1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Robert Green on October 15, 2003.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 20, line 13, the phrase "step of" has been deleted.

In claim 20, line 13, --from the supply of developing solution to-- has been added after the second occurrence of "time" and before "50%".

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Independent claim 1 is allowable over the prior art of record because neither Subramanian et al. or JP '429 teach or suggest the claimed method in combination with a step of measuring the thickness of the developing solution layer and changing one of the rotation time, rotation speed, or rotation acceleration of a stirring step based on the thickness measurement.

Independent claim 20 is allowable over the prior art of JP '429 and Subramanian et al. because neither JP '429 nor Subramanian et al. teach or suggest the claimed method including the step of stopping the substrate for the second predetermined period of time prior to stirring, whereby the second predetermined period of time is a period of time from the supply of developing solution to 50% to 80% of progress of the developing chemical reaction. There is support for this limitation on page 4, lines 24-26 of the specification. Because JP '429 and Subramanian et al. both only comprise stopping the substrate for an instant while reversing spin directions during the second predetermined time period (prior to stirring and developing in a stationary condition), the references do not teach or suggest developing the substrate in a stationary condition until 50-80% of developing chemical reaction occurs during the second predetermined time period.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
